

CCH PUBLICATIONS YOU MAY NOT KNOW ABOUT April 9

The Center for Cryptologic History (CCH) has issued a great number of publications since it was established in 1989. Unclassified publications are available on NSA.gov.

We thought it would be interesting each month to highlight one of our publications that you don't know you want—yet.

As the public has become more aware of the activities of the Intelligence Community, CCH historians have received many questions about intelligence information and knowledge of the Holocaust during World War II.

Eavesdropping on Hell, by now-retired CCH historian Robert J. Hanyok, compiles what is known about the Holocaust from SIGINT. It is an essential reference for understanding the intelligence aspects of the horrors of the Holocaust. His chapter on the operation of the SIGINT system during the war also is important reading for general historians of the war.

This book may be read online: [insert nsa.gov link].

508 CAPTION: The cover of the CCH publication Eavesdropping on Hell.